News Digest.

We have foreign news of the 13th inst.—It is rumored that GARIBALDI has determined to besiege Messina. The King of Naples has granted his people the constitution of 1812. France is forming a National Rifle Association, similar to that of England.—Breadstuffs are reported quiet but steady.

A suit has been commenced against the New York Central R. R. for the recovery of tolls remitted by a law of 1850, amounting to $5,000,000.

Serious fires have raged in the pine forests of New Jersey for ten days past, destroying an immense amount of timber.

Mr. GALES, one of the publishers of the National Intelligencer, died at Washington Sunday evening.

A number of interesting items of news will be found in our telegraph columns.

SHALL THE ELECTION GO TO CHOOSE.—Judge LARRABEE, the Democratic M. C. from the Third District of this State, addressed a meeting at Ozaukee, on Wednesday last, and is thus reported by the Ozaukee Advertiser and Democrat:

> He reviewed the positions of the four candidates now in the field, and gave his opinions upon what seemed to him might be the result, if no material change took place between now and the election. As matters now stood, it was his opinion that the election would go to the House of Representatives, and that the three candidates to be returned to that body for a choice, would be Lincoln, Douglas and Bell.

The last hope of the Sham Democracy is to prevent an election of President by the People and throw it into the House, where "bargains and corruption" can have full sway. The surest way to defeat that game is to vote for LINCOLN. Let the PEOPLE bear this fact in mind.

JUSTICE TO CARL SCHURZ.—The Louisville Journal takes the Democrat of that city to task for speaking disparagingly of CARL SCHURZ, and adds: "Although a Black Republican and a radical, Mr. SCHURZ is one of the most profound and most philosophical and powerful thinkers of the age, and he always gives utterance to views in language remarkable for its clearness, its classical accuracy, and its eloquence."

"VOTE AS YOU PLEASE."—The President's gracious declaration that "every Democrat is at perfect liberty to vote as he thinks proper," while at the same time he chops off the heads of DOUGLAS men, reminds the Boston Journal of the French military officer's speech to his company previous to an election—"You are at perfect liberty to vote as you please; any one who doesn't vote as I do will be shot."

WANTS TO SPREAD SLAVERY.—Senator BROWN, of Mississippi, who is one of the great Democratic leaders in these times, makes the following beautiful declaration:

> "I want Cuba, I want Tamaulipas, Potosi, and one or two other Mexican States—and I want them all for the same reason, for the planting and spreading of Slavery. * * * I would spread the blessings of Slavery, like the religion of our Divine Master, to the utmost ends of the earth."

A YEAR OF PLENTY.—From all parts of the country we hear the most satisfactory accounts of the harvest. The extent of ground under cultivation is greater than in any previous year, and the husbandman's labor is promised a rich reward. The great cereal crops, wheat, rye, oats and corn, are generally in a flourishing condition; and even orchard fruits are more abundant than they have been for many past seasons.

THE MORRISSEY CHALLENGE BOGUS.—JOHN MORRISSEY telegraphs from Saratoga Springs to DAD CUNNINGHAM that the challenge to HEENAN was a bogus one. His friends state that MORRISSEY has no intention of fighting HEENAN now, or at any other time. He is quite unwell from an affection of the throat, which troubled him before his departure for Europe, and for which he is constantly blistered in a most painful manner. He has not been in anything like perfect health for over a year past.

COL. FORNEY, of the Philadelphia Press, in the issue of that paper of the 17th inst., virtually concedes that the election of ABRAHAM LINCOLN is a foregone conclusion.

Our Special Washington Despatches.

WASHINGTON, July 20.

POLITICAL SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Politics are beginning to assume significance, and if I can venture to draw inferences at this early day, I would say that the contest would in the end be narrowed down to a choice between Lincoln and Breckinridge. All the indications are that Douglas is counted out of the fight, and is not expected to carry a solitary State. The August elections will determine the position of Bell, and for this reason great importance is attached to the election in North Carolina, a week from next Thursday. The candidates are Ellis, (Dem.) the present incumbent and a supporter of Breckinridge; and Pool, an old American, who is now for Bell. If Pool should be elected, it will give a stimulus to the Bell party in all the Southern States. If he should be defeated, Breckinridge stock will rise, and Bell will be considered as overboard. In that section Douglas is not spoken of, or if at all, simply as a tender to Bell and Everett, just as in New York the Bell men are working their best for Douglas.

THE BRECKINRIDGE MEETING IN NEW YORK.

The great event of the times, as showing the feebleness of the Little Giant, and proving that he is engaged in a contest where he is overmatched, is the Breckinridge meeting in New York, night before last. It is admitted on all sides to be the great demonstration of the campaign, and is regarded as the prelude to the overthrow of Richmond, Cagger & Co., who have so long controlled the New York Democracy, and sold their votes to the highest bidder. How it must have galled these interesting worthies and their confreres to see the Douglas meeting at Tammany outnumbered two to one, and then the appearance of John Van Buren and Levi S. Chatfield on the stand—their worthy Barnburner associates of 1848!

That must have afflicted their righteous souls, but the worst was to come. Daniel S. Dickinson, the man they coolly swindled at Syracuse and at Charleston, and, as they hoped, buried at Baltimore, was there, like Banquo's ghost, to remind them of their treachery. The reign of the Regency is over, and it is said John Cochrane and Fernando Wood would give something handsome to be in uncommitted positions.

They fear that they have put their feet in it but don't know how to back out. In a few words, the Breckinridge demonstration was a success. It showed that he would far outstrip "the Douglas" in the city of New York. Take away the ponderous majority he expected in that city, and what hope can the Rump candidate have of carrying the State? There has been a visible decline of Douglas stock here to-day and very long faces among the "Simon Pures."—Cin. Gaz.

GREAT REPUBLICAN RALLY.

25,000 People in Council—Macoupin, Greene and Jersey Counties in Mass meeting.

Correspondence of the Press & Tribune.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., July 20 '60.

I have just returned from attending one of the most remarkable political gatherings ever held in this section of the State—remarkable for its numbers and for the irrepressible enthusiasm of the people. The meeting was held at Rock Ridge, about twenty miles nearly due west from this place, near the corner of Macoupin, Greene and Jersey counties. It was held in the open woods, eight miles from the nearest village, twenty miles from the nearest railroad station, and, in fact, entirely beyond the reach of any of the usual accessories for getting together a large crowd.

Nevertheless the crowd came—came with banners and with music—came in such numbers as have never before been witnessed at a political gathering in this region. Good judges estimate the number present at from 20,000 to 25,000. By actual count, there were over 5,000 vehicles on the ground, while many people came on horseback and on foot. People came from a distance of forty miles, starting the day before, and staying over night by the way.

The Wide Awakes were out in full force from Carrollton, Jerseyville, Fidelity and Carlinville, each company having a fine band of music. But I have not time to-night to go into detail.

Speeches were made during the day by Mr. Case, our candidate for Congress, Hon. Owen Lovejoy, Hon. N. B. Judd and H. Kreismann, Esq., of your city, and by Hon. John M. Palmer, of this place. The enthusiasm of the crowd corresponded well with its vast magnitude. Cheer upon cheer greeted the good points of the various speakers, and every reference to our gallant standard-bearer produced an outburst of enthusiasm, indicative of his strong hold upon the masses.

The good effect of the demonstration cannot well be over estimated. You may confidently count upon a good report from this section in November next. Our people are aroused as they never have been before.

WIDE-AWAKE.

Big Indian Scare.

From the St. Cloud Democrat.

On Wednesday evening about four o'clock the Census Marshal came riding into town in hot haste, with the report that he had encountered a courier sent from Forest City to notify the people that the entire force of Sioux warriors had risen, at a payment, over on the Minnesota River—had murdered the agents and interpreters, and were crossing the country, murdering, burning and pilfering. This courier had seen them, and estimated their numbers at thousands, had seen them burn two houses and murder the inhabitants. As his horse was about dropping, the Marshal left him there and galloped in with the news.

Soon the town began to fill with women and children from Maine Prairie, Grand Lake, Rockville and all down the Sauk Valley. They came on foot and by every kind of conveyance, and the cattle from Maine Prairie were mostly driven into St. Cloud to cut off the supplies of the advancing savages. The women and children of Forest City, Kingston, and Fair Haven it was said had all fled to Clear Water, as a nearer point than this.

The St. Cloud Guards turned out and almost every man in town volunteered to go and meet the Indians, but this was felt to be imprudent as some of the ladies were greatly alarmed; and there was a possibility that if the report was true, a party might surprise the town. So, one hundred men hastened to the relief of the men on Maine Prairie, who were determined to stand by their property. Other men were organized, and kept up a patrol on all that side of the town west of the river. It was arranged that if there was any cause of alarm in the night a sentry should haste to the saw mill of Fowler & Owen, where a man was stationed to keep up steam and was to blow the whistle for all the women and children to go to the Stearns House. Fowler staid at his ferry close by, and pledged us that he'd run the boat until he took over everybody who wanted to go.—It was a night of anxiety, for those who did not believe in the possibility of a hostile Indian getting here, were in sympathy with the settlers back. The morning sun shines brightly—it is nine o'clock—the men have not yet returned from Maine Prairie, but a message has come that they have found no Indians.

We insisted on sending to Fort Ripley for troops, for a probability that a single family had been murdered, appeared cause sufficient; but the rule, as understood, appears to be that the soldiers will not come until all the fighting is over. In the midst of the excitement Gen. Lowry rode through town on his way to the scene of action, smilingly assuring the ladies that there were not one hundred Indians within two hundred miles of us. He was going out to see, and as he converses in Sioux, will have a talk with the red skins, if he can find any to talk to. He was in his native character and appeared to advantage.

It is highly probable that it was a false alarm and that no one was killed. The St. Cloud boys appear almost painfully disappointed at not having had a chance of an Indian for a target.

P. S.—Gen. Lowry has arrived, and the militia are returning. The scouts sent on to Forest City have come back, reporting that the citizens have heard of no Indians this side of Fort Ridgely, which is situated 150 miles distant.

Base Ball—Match between the Excelsior and Atlantic Clubs.

The match between these two leading clubs of Brooklyn took place yesterday on the grounds of the former club in South Brooklyn, in the presence of an immense assemblage of spectators, there being at a fair calculation not less than ten or twelve thousand people present on the occasion. This contest has been the leading topic of conversation in Base Ball Clubs for the past month and more; and since the return of the Excelsiors from their successful tour through the State, during which they played matches with the principal Ball Clubs of Albany, Troy, Buffalo, Rochester and Newburgh, the excitement has been on the increase and yesterday it culminated in the collection of the vast assemblage of interested spectators that surrounded the ball ground of the Excelsior Club. Their opponents on this occasion have by common consent been for a long time known as the champion of the game, they never having yet been beaten in a series of home-and-home matches since their organization.

They have at last, however, met their superiors, and the Excelsior may now take precedence of all as the best players in the State. Among those whose efforts merit special commendation of the victors, we would name Messrs. Leggett, Creighton, Pears, H. Holden, and Russell, for their activity and efficiency in the holding department, and J. Whiting for his fine batting; and on the part of the Atlantic, Messrs. Oliver, Joe Oliver, and Smith deserve praise for their excellent general play. The admirable arrangements of the Excelsior contributed greatly to make the proceedings pass off credibly. We append the scores:

I DO NOT THINK it is generally known in America, that Prince Jerome was three times married. Of the first, Miss Patterson, when he was but a youthful midshipman of nineteen; and the second to the Princess of Wurtemburg, you already know. But it is also true that while he resided in Florence as Count de Montfort, he contracted a marriage with a noble Florentine lady, and lived with her in that city for several years. When his family star was again in the ascendent, and he was summoned to Paris by his august nephew, the family refused to recognize this third marriage, it having been contracted without their consent and the lady's position was made so unpleasantly exceptional that she returned to the palace of her own family in Florence, where she still remains, I believe.—Paris Correspondence.

BY THE CENSUS, says the Hartford Times, Hartford and New Haven will exhibit an increase of about 40,000 over their population of 1850. They have nearly doubled during the last decade.

"Wide-Awake" Excursion to Waukesha.

We understand that the "Wide-Awakes" of our City, at the invitation of their brethren in Waukesha, will pay a visit to that thriving village to-morrow evening. They will leave here, by special train, at 7 o'clock P. M., returning shortly after 11. The whole cost of the trip will be sixty cents per man. Let us turn out in goodly number, to greet our Waukesha friends. All intending to go will please leave their names with PETER VAN VECHTEN, President of the Club, at Uncle Ben's.

IMPROVEMENTS ON THE WEST SIDE.—There is no end to the building improvements on the West Side. Mr. JOHN PLANKINTON has commenced the erection of a splendid building on Spring street, adjoining the Chamber of Commerce. It will be forty feet eight inches wide in the clear, and four lofty stories in height, supported by rows of iron pillars in the center. It is to have a handsome iron front, and is put up, we believe, with a view of being converted into a wholesale dry goods establishment; though, of course, it will answer full as well for any other description of business. The location is one of the very best in the city, and the enterprising owner will doubtless realize a handsome profit on his investment.

HARVEY BIRCHARD's new block, a little further towards the American House, on the corner of Spring and West Water streets, is progressing rapidly, and will be a great improvement on the old brick building that occupied that corner. The first story is divided into moderate sized stores, and in the third story will be an elegant hall. On the opposite corner, where the Armory Hall now stands, Mr. C. R. AUSTIN is about to put up a fine block of stores that will correspond with the other improvements in this locality. The builders have commenced work on Mr. RODNITS' new packing house, a few doors from Spring street, on West Water. We have already described this building. Surely, the West Side is going ahead.

THE RUNNERS for the Chicago and North Western Railway have adopted the style of Mr. JERVIS, with variations and improvements, to keep travelers away from Milwaukee. Here is the latest specimen from a handbill that has been pretty extensively circulated:

> "If you are going East, or to Chicago, be particular and ask for tickets via Chicago and North-Western Railway, as if you do not have tickets by this route, you will be obliged to ride over one mile in an omnibus at Milwaukee, and go all day without a chance for dinner. By Chicago and North-Western Railway you have ample time for meals at splendid Eating Houses, and no omnibus Riding! Statements made by rival routes to the contrary, are only to deceive the traveling public. This is the only road by which passengers can get to Chicago from the Mississippi River, without omnibus riding of over one mile! Mark Hendricks, North-Western Agent."

Every statement in the above contains a point blank lie, and we do not think that the North-Western Railway will make many friends in Wisconsin by circulating such clap-trap stuff. We need tell no intelligent person that the Railroads diverging from this city have too much concern for their own interests not to arrange their time tables in such a manner as to accommodate the traveling public in every respect. Travelers arriving here, either for the East or West invariably have plenty of time for meals, and along all the Rail Roads are numerous and well kept eating houses.

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN.—We regret to announce that Mr. ELISHA ELDRED, one of the pioneers of Milwaukee, died at his residence in this city, on Sunday last, in the 65th year of his age. A correspondent in this morning's paper does but simple justice to the memory of Mr. ELDRED, as an honest man, good citizen, and affectionate husband and father. Mr. ELDRED was one of the largest real estate owners in our city, his property being valued at from half to three-quarters of a million. He leaves a wife and large family of children to mourn his loss.

SPLENDID HARVEST WEATHER.—The cloudless sky, bright sunshine and cool breeze, yesterday, was just what our Farmers need for their harvest labors. There are many thousands at work, all over the State, gathering in the heavy crops; and a continuance of such weather as we had yesterday is all that they ask. We hear fabulous stories of the enormous yield of wheat. If the half that is told us proves true, Wisconsin will have surplus enough, this year, to square accounts with "all the world and the rest of mankind."

UPHOLSTERERS.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that HENRY MIDDLETON and HERMAN GUTTLER, (the old foreman of Mr. BRATTAN) have formed a co-partnership to carry on the Upholstering business, in all its branches, at 32 Wisconsin street, opposite Young's Block. They are both men of industry and integrity, and thoroughly posted as to their business. The public will find it to their advantage to patronize the new firm.

DROWNED.—Two boys, FREDERICK MEYERS, and BERNARD O'BYRNE, aged respectively 19 and 13, were drowned near the old harbor Sunday morning. They went into bathe, and being carried beyond their depth were both drowned. The body of MEYERS was recovered at 6 o'clock Sunday, but that of his comrade had not been found at last accounts. A reward of $25 is offered for the recovery of O'BYRNE's body.

PERSONAL.—GEO. M. EVANS, Esq., assistant surgeon of the Great Eastern, was in town yesterday, stopping at the Newhall House, with some other English friends.—They came west via the Great Western and Detroit and Milwaukee Railways and were going as far as the Capital on a pleasure tour.

Death of Elisha Eldred.

For the Sentinel.

Yesterday the spirit of a good man took its flight and passed into the presence of its Maker. "Old man ELDRED," the name by which he has been known in this city for many years—and wherever he was known he was respected—is dead. A more upright man never lived in Milwaukee, or elsewhere. He was scrupulously honest. His word, once pledged, was never broken; his word was his bond.

Mr. ELDRED was one of the largest real-estate owners in Milwaukee. He was one of its earliest settlers, migrating here 18 years ago. Possessed at that time of a large capital, for a new country, he at once invested it, with that sound judgment that characterized all his actions. If any person will take the trouble to look on the city map, with the different lots owned by Mr. ELDRED marked, he will at once observe that, no matter what turn business might take, his investments in lots was certain to realize him a fortune.—That which has often been attributed to luck, was in reality the result of a clear head and a sound judgment.

To Mr. ELDRED's advice and action was due, in a great measure, the location of Spring Street Bridge where it now is. Though never active as a public man, nor as a politician, no one has been more often sought as an adviser—as one calculated to give good counsel in matters pertaining to the welfare of the city. All had confidence in his judgment and honesty.

But enough. The old man has left us, and gone down to his grave. Of him there is no necessity for that hackneyed phrase—Demortuis nil nisi bonum. Charity is at all times the most befitting mantle wherewith to cover the dead. But here the closest scrutiny would discover nothing but honesty of purpose through a long life. And if there be those who at times have thought that the old man, who is now above us, lacked the public spirit, manifested by others, in the improvement of the large property of which he was the owner, let them remember that ELISHA ELDRED was one who most cheerfully accorded to all others, what he claimed for himself, "the right to do as he liked with his own."

From a farmer's boy "ploughing corn for a shilling a day," a statement we have often heard him make, he had by industry, economy, and integrity, accumulated a large fortune; reared a numerous family, bequeathing to each one an independency—and all, all obtained without having wronged a human being of one cent's worth. Of how few could such an assertion be made.

On the Sabbath in the quiet of his own home, in the midst of his family on the "hill top," overlooking the Milwaukee he has seen grow and expand from a small village, to a city teeming with life and business, holding within its incorporate limits fifty thousand souls, the good christian, the devoted husband and parent bade adieu to his family and the world, and went forth resigned and contented to meet his God.

That Scotch poet who seems to have often gently opened the human heart, to show us the delicate beauties of its inmost recesses, has said:

> "To make the cheerfu' household clime,
> For weans and wife;
> This is the true pathos and sublime,
> O' human life."

At his own fireside shone brightly his good qualities. In his home he was, as he deserved to be, truly loved. As a christian, a husband, a parent, and a citizen, he has left us an example well worthy of our imitation. We must all feel that the death of ELISHA ELDRED, is the removal of a bright moral light from our midst.

New Books.

The Directory of the Young Men's Association continue to show themselves studious of the enjoyment of members, in making mental provision for the dog-days now upon us.—Some of the works announced this morning, will also come in play when the long evenings and more bracing temperature dispose to severe study. Of the former may be cited "El Fureidies," which the admirers of Miss CUMMINGS' previous books will be Gladtosee, and "Say Andseal" by the Misses WARNER. Midway, perhaps, in intellectual consistency between the two classes, might be instanced the "Mt. Vernon Vapers" now collected into a volume, and "The Throne of David" by the author of "the Pillar of Fire," a kind of reading now quite in vogue. Our late visit from the Orientals will give an entranced value to the narrative of Lord Elgin's Mission to China and Japan in 1857-8.—Politicians in the Association may now post themselves in regard to the services and merits of Presidential candidates, in the lives of their respective favorites. Of the more elaborate works, are: "Ancient Gaul," an initial volume of a new History of France, by PARK GODWIN; the completion of ARNOLD's History of Rhode Island, and the long-looked for continuation of BANCROFT's United States—vol. VIII.

Educators and Philanthropists will be pleased to consult the most extended work, devoted to that interest, published in this country, in the "American Journal of Education," by Chancellor BARNARD, of our State University. Merchants purposing to retire, and those interested only in scientific questions involved, may profitably examine BARON LEIBIG's "Modern Agriculture." The last volume but one of BENTON's Abridgement winds up the list.

It is expected there will be a considerable sum arising out of the proceeds of the lecture, to be given next week by the Rev. Mr. BARTLETT, to devote to Library purposes. The Reverend Lecturer's "drawing" powers are considered scarcely second to any, and will bring together hosts of admirers, as well as those who will be led by anticipated novelties of style and sentiment. The question is mooted, even, whether we have a hall capacious enough for the purpose.

SEALING UP FRUIT.—A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker gives the following method for four seasons with uniform success: "I use self-sealing glass jars, and my method is this:—I put fruit into my porcelain preserving kettle, enough to fill two quart jars; sprinkle about one quart of sugar; place it over slow fire and let it gradually heat through. (The secret is in having the fruit thoroughly heated through, not cooked.) While the fruit is heating I keep the jars filled with hot water till the fruit is ready, which, of course, prevents them from cracking. Fill up to the brim and seal tight. As it cools a sufficient vacuum is formed in the jar to prevent bursting. In this way fruit of every kind will retain its flavor.—My strawberries taste precisely like those just picked from the vines, and sprinkled with sugar and set away long enough to let the sugar melt. There is no mistake in preserving fruit in this way. Sometimes a thick leathery mould forms on the top—if so, all the better."

FOR DETROIT, CLEVELAND AND BUFFALO.—The splendid upper cabin screw steamer Galena, Capt. STEELE, leaves from the foot of East Water street at 6 P. M., for the above and intermediate ports. For passage apply at the Company's office, foot of East Water street. GRIFFIN & FLINT, Agents.

Our Jail.

Severe reflections having been cast upon our Jail, by the Free Democrat, a party of gentlemen visited it, a day or two since, by invitation of the Sheriff, and make report as follows: We copy from the News of Sunday; and cordially endorse what is said of the general appearance of the jail and of the excellent management of Mr. HUNT, who has charge of the institution:

> "We visited the Jail of Milwaukee county yesterday, and were kindly shown about the institution by the efficient jailor, Caleb Hunt. We had a curiosity to look upon the interior from the fact that certain charges have appeared in the Free Democrat regarding the manner in which it was kept.
> The hour was at noon, when the prisoners were engaged in eating their dinner, which consisted of clean, wholesome, and substantial fare. When we entered the jail, we noticed an air of cleanliness about it which we scarcely expected to find in a building used for this purpose. The walls have been newly white-washed, the floors were cleanly swept, and fairly shone with the scrubbing they daily receive, and everything was in perfect order. Every cell has, since the jail came under the supervision of Mr. Hunt, been thoroughly cleansed and white-washed, and each contains two suspended cots, upon which the prisoners rest at night. A good ventilation is acquired by the perforated iron doors, and the corridors are kept clean and in good order.
> There are four large rooms in which the prisoners are kept by day. At night they are placed in cells and locked securely in for rest. A watchman walks the corridors during the whole night, and no one who is once securely locked inside need have any hope of escape.
> There are at the present time twenty-eight persons confined within the walls of the building, twenty-one of whom are males, and seven females. A strict watch is kept over them, though they are treated kindly and well cared for in every particular.
> Mr. Hunt, the jailor, is a man admirably qualified for the position he holds. He was for a long time Deputy Sheriff of Cuyahoga County, Ohio, and was located in the city of Cleveland, where his long experience with criminals has made him fully competent to assume a post like this, which is difficult and onerous. He is kind and humane in his disposition, and treats the unfortunate class of individuals under his charge with a kindness which they seldom fail to appreciate. Mr. Hunt has also a valuable assistant in the person of Mr. J. Dresser, the turnkey.
> Mr. Thos Langworthy, the former jailor, being unable to attend to the duties of his station, from ill-health, Mr. Hunt was appointed in his stead, and we are confident that no better, or more competent man could be found for the post, or one who would more faithfully attend to, and discharge its duties.

Resolutions of Condolence.

STATE BANK OF WISCONSIN,
MILWAUKEE, July 23d, 1860.

At a special meeting of the Directors of this Bank, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, in his inscrutable providence, to remove from us in the midst of his usefulness, one of our most esteemed associates and prominent citizens, and

Whereas, it becomes us, surviving members of this Board, while bowing in humble resignation to this stroke of our Father's hand, to express our deep sense of the calamity that has befallen us and this community; therefore,

Resolved, That in the lamented death of Elisha Eldred, Esq., we have sustained the loss of an active, intelligent and useful member, for many years Vice President of the Board; his family that of a devoted husband and father; and the community that of an upright, energetic and public-spirited citizen.

Resolved, That we tender our most heartfelt sympathy to the immediate relatives of the deceased in this hour of their affliction, and unite our supplications with theirs to the Almighty Ruler of the Universe, that He will bind their bleeding wounds and pour balm into their wounded hearts.

Resolved, That in testimony of our respect for the memory of our deceased friend and associate, we will, in a body, attend his funeral, and wear the customary badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That copies of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, attested by the officers of this Board, be presented to the family of the deceased, and published in the daily papers of this city.

M. S. SCOTT, Cashier.
JOHN G. INBUSCH, President.

State Teachers' Association.

Notice is hereby given to the teachers that contemplate attending the State Teachers' Association, to be held in Milwaukee, on the 1st of August next, that all the railroads leading from Milwaukee, will carry teachers, to and from the Association, at half-fare—i. e., full fare on coming to the city, and return free.

The Association will hold its first session in the First Presbyterian Church, corner of Mason and Milwaukee streets, on Wednesday at 3 p. m., on the first floor. The Committee of Arrangements will be at the basement of the Church during the whole day, to assign persons, as they report themselves, places of entertainment.

J. FORD,
Superintendent of Schools.

REMOVAL.—On the 1st of August, H. N. HEMPSTED, the well-known music dealer, will remove to the new and elegant store north of Young's Block, No. 266 Main street. Professor HEMPSTED's has got to be one of the "institutions" of Milwaukee, and we make this announcement of his removal in advance, so that the ladies (with whom he is a decided favorite, by the way) and the music public may not be at a loss where to find him.

ANOTHER ELECTION BLUNDER IN MILWAUKEE.—Another blunder occurred in the Milwaukee elections. The notice required by law of an election must be published ten days, but the notice of this was only published six days.—Madison Argus & Democrat.

All a mistake Mr. Argus. No "blunder" was committed. The Charter requires only five days' notice, and, in this case, our City Clerk gave us nine days' notice.

WOOD'S FAMOUS NEW YORK MINSTRELS, it will be seen, are announced to give three entertainments in this city commencing Thursday evening next at the Academy of Music. They are considered the best company of minstrels now peforming in the Union.

MADISON, June 23d, 1860.

Breckinridge and Lane in New York.

The BRECKINRIDGE Ratification meeting in the City of New York, last week, was remarkable for its numbers and spirit, and still more so for the character of the principal speech of the evening, and of one of the letters received by the Committee of Arrangements. The speech to which we refer was that delivered by the Hon. DANIEL S. DICKINSON, the veteran leader of the Democracy of the Empire State, and the letter was written by CHARLES O'CONOR, one of the brightest lights and chief ornaments of the New York Bar. The speech of Mr. DICKINSON is a scorching one, mainly directed at the majority of the New York Delegation at Baltimore. The plotters and schemers who controlled that majority and gave direction to the proceedings of the Convention are thus forcibly and graphically described by Mr. DICKINSON, who knows them well, personally and politically:

> The authors of this outrage, whom we should hold accountable, and who are justly and directly chargeable with it, were the ruling majority of the N. Y. delegation. They held the balance of power, and madly, and selfishly, and corruptly used it for the disruption of the Democratic party in endeavoring to force it up to a fixed point to subserve their infamous schemes. They were there charged with high responsibilities by a patriotic and confiding constituency—in a crisis of unusual interest in the history of the party and the country—they, in an evil moment, hold in their leprous hands the destinies of a noble party and of this great country—they professed to be governed by honorable considerations, and to desire the unity and harmony, and success of the Democracy. They proclaimed personally and through their accredited organs, that in their view, the Southern States were entitled to name a candidate, and declared that it would be their first policy to second such suggestions as were made in that quarter, and support such candidate as should be named by, or be most acceptable to the South, and with such professions and false pretences on their lips, they went to Charleston.
> But, from the moment they entered the convention at Charleston, until it was finally broken up by their base conduct and worse faith at Baltimore—conduct which secured them the designation of political gamblers upon the floor of the convention, their every act was to oppose the wishes, and resist each, any, and every candidate who would be acceptable to the southern States, and their every effort, in season and out of season—by night and by day—was to force upon the southern states a candidate whose creed they repudiated and condemned—a candidate they had declared in solemn form, and with repeated asseverations, they could not and would not support—a candidate who was at open war with the administration—who had but a single supporter in the democratic senate, and whose especial adherents had just aided the republicans in the election of a speaker and clerk of the house of representatives, two of the most influential and commanding positions in the government. [Applause.]
> Those who ruled, and dictated to, and wielded the vote of the New York delegation through the fraudulent process of a unit vote—a vote forced upon a large minority of this delegation to stifle their sentiments, while small minorities were released from it in others to suit the purposes of the conspirators, will hereafter be known by the name plainly branded upon their guilty foreheads at Charleston—"Political Gamblers!"—who hang festering upon the lobbies of State and Federal legislation to purchase chartered privileges and immunity by corrupt appliances—who thrive in its fœtid atmosphere, and swell to obese proportions like vultures upon offal; office seekers who crawl and cringe around the footsteps of power, and by false pretences procure themselves, or vile tools, places of official trust and emolument, that they may pack and control caucuses and conventions at the expense of the people they defraud and betray, while honest men are engaged in their industrial vocations to earn their bread.
> Oh, how has the once noble spirit of the Democracy fled from such contaminating approaches! Rome, whose proud banner once waved triumphant over a conquered world, degenerated in the pursuit of sensual delights to a band of fiddlers and dancers, and the Democratic party of New York, founded in the spirit of Jefferson, and emulating, for many years, the noble efforts of a Jackson and a Tompkins, has, in the hands of "political gamblers," been degraded by practices which would dishonor the resorts of a Peter Funk in cast-off clothing; cheating the sentiment of the people and nation; cheating a great and confiding party, whose principles they put on as a disguise, for the purpose of enabling them to cheat; cheating the Convention which admitted them to seats; cheating delegations who trusted them; cheating everybody and everything with which they came in contact, except Mr. Douglas, their nominee, and then lamenting through their accredited organ, from day to day, that the Convention had not remained together so that they might finally have cheated him. [Great laughter.] They have overthrown the Democratic masses, but "woe to the idlers that trampled them down." Political gamblers! you have breathed your contagion throughout the Democratic citadels, and profaned and polluted its very walls. You have defiled its holy places by your corrupting influence; unclean beasts foal in the area of its temples, and filthy reptiles have inhabited the sanctuary of its gods. Its lowering eagle of liberty has fled, for a brief season, and foul ravens croak for prey and whet their bloody peaks and dirty talons upon its sacred altars. Political gamblers, you have perpetrated your last cheat—consummated your last fraud upon the Democratic party, for you will never again be trusted. Henceforth you will be held and treated as political outlaws, and set at defiance. There is no fox so crafty but his hide will go to the hatters. [Laughter.] You would hang upon its skirts to regain power, and lie in the bush for revenge; but as an open enemy you are powerless, and are only dangerous to those who trust you. With parties, and especially cliques, who betray trusts and abuse power, as with individuals, there is a day of reckoning and retribution, and yours is at hand.
> "For time at last sets all things even,
> And if we do but watch the hour,
> There never yet was human power,
> Who could evade, if unforgiven,
> The patient search and vigil long,
> Of him who treasures up a wrong." [Applause.]

These are no "Black Republican" fictions There are deliberate charges brought by one of the oldest, ablest and most prominent of the Democratic leaders in New York, against those who engineered the DOUGLAS Conventions at Charleston and Baltimore. They are charges, not founded upon idle rumor, but substantiated by facts within Mr. DICKINSON's own knowledge. Look, then, at the picture which he draws of the DOUGLAS leaders in New York, and whom he holds up to public scorn and condemnation as, "political gamblers, who hang festering upon the lobbies of State and Federal legislation to purchase chartered privileges and immunity by corrupt appliances—who thrive in its fœted atmosphere, and swell to obese proportions like vultures upon offal; office seekers who crawl and cringe around the footstool of power and by false pretences procure themselves, or vile tools, places of trust and emolument, that they may pack and control caucuses and conventions, at the expense of the people they defraud and betray, while honest men are engaged in their industrial vocations to earn their bread."

This is a terrible philippic, and the more terrible for its truth; while the fierce anathema which Mr. DICKINSON launches at the DOUGLAS leaders, is significant of the intense hostility which now divides the two wings of the Democracy. "Political gamblers," he exclaims, "you have now perpetrated your last cheat—consummated your last fraud.—Henceforth you will be held as political outlaws and set at defiance." There is no "fusion" in these fiery utterances. It is "war to the knife and the knife to the hilt," against "the DOUGLAS and his men"—and the latter will not be slow to answer the bold challenge.

Mr. DICKINSON closed his speech, which has produced an immense sensation in New York political circles, in the following stanzas:

> Gentlemen, the democratic nominees (Great applause—three cheers for Breckinridge and Lane—hisses and cries of "put him out.") No, no, don't put him out—Rome was saved by the cackling of geese and we may be saved by the hissing of one. (Great laughter.)—Breckinridge and Lane, their names, their history constitute for them the best eulogy. It needs none from me. They were nominated, not by machinery, but they were nominated by the sentiment of the democratic states. They will certainly carry thirteen states, and the other ticket will not get one electoral vote, nor the shadow of one. (Three cheers for Dickerson.) They say that Douglas and Johnson are the regular nominations, and so all in favor of such must stand by these exceedingly regular nominations. (Laughter.)
> I aver that the convention which nominated Mr. Douglas had no show of regularity in any shape. It was a fraction of a convention from a fraction of the Republican States, and I mean States that have clearly a Republican majority, and was partly filled up by bogus delegates from other States. The whole trouble in this matter is that the Democratic party, like the serpent in the fable, undertook to run tail foremost and could not do it. It had no head. General Cushing, the President, left it and presided over the convention nominating Breckinridge; it had no democratic vote, because the Democratic States were outside, it had but the skeleton of the Republican States, and the rest of it was bogus tail, and won't get a single vote. [Laughter.]
> No one pretends that the nominations of Breckinridge and Lane have the authority of a regular national convention, according to the usages of the party. But, they have more claim to regularity than the other.—This convention had a head in the president of the whole convention. It had a democratic body in the regular delegations from all the sure democratic States—a majority of the States of the Union—it had no bogus extremity, and it had a platform of manly principles—of liberty, equality and fraternity upon which every true democrat of the whole Union can stand together. (Laughter.)
> The question recurs, what shall we do? Do? Why stand resolutely by principle, and let the storm rage on—there is sunshine beyond the clouds—shun all entangling alliances of every name and kind. The readiest, surest, speediest, most honorable way to success, is to repudiate all fusions, all factions, all patch-work, all devices, all expedients, all efforts to be upon both sides, and stand by our candidates and our creed. We shall then commence to deserve success, and if we persevere in this stern path of constitutional rectitude, we shall preserve our self-respect, command the respect of all others, and our efforts will be crowned with triumph for our party and our principles, the good influences of which will last when party managers and tricksters and their vile schemes are forgotten, or remembered only to be hated and execrated.

Even more remarkable than the defiant and denunciatory speech of Mr. DICKINSON is the elaborate letter of CHARLES O'CONOR, which we give elsewhere in full. Whatever may be thought of the sentiments expressed by Mr. O'CONOR, all must admit that they are avowed with perfect frankness and defended with professional ingenuity. His letter is a lawyer's plea in favor of Slavery. Mr. O'CONOR believes himself, and thinks it the special mission of the Democratic Party to maintain, that "Negro SLAVERY has ever been a main pillar of our strength, an indispensable element of our growth and prosperity;" and that it is "the duty of every American citizen to vindicate its essential justice and morality, in all Courts and places, before men and nations."

Mr. O'CONOR does not mince matters. He takes the bull boldly by the horns. He holds, with the DOUGLAS candidate for Vice-Presidency, that "CAPITAL SHOULD OWN LABOR," and he calls upon the Democratic Party to inscribe on their banners and to proclaim in the coming contest, that novel political axiom to Northern ears, that the institution of SLAVERY is just, moral and humane and merits the sanction of the People and the protection of the Government. We cordially agree with Mr. O'CONOR that in the issue, as thus presented by him, he has abundant reasons for preferring "three candidates for the Presidency," BRECKINRIDGE, DOUGLAS and BELL, to ABRAHAM LINCOLN. This is equivalent to saying that there is but little difference on the question of Slavery, between the three; and that LINCOLN alone can be relied upon as true to Freedom. Can the FREEMEN of the North, in view of this fact, any longer hesitate which of the four to choose for the next President of the United States?

Lincoln and the Sewardites.

> There is a very wide-spread belief among Republicans, that Mr. Weed does not wish Lincoln to be President.—Rochester Union.
> The knaves who circulate, and the fools who believe, that we are indifferent to the result of the Presidential Election are making themselves equally ridiculous.—There is not, within the range of our acquaintance, a friend of Gov. Seward (himself included) who does not ardently desire the election of Lincoln and Hamlin, and who is not zealously at work to render that consummation certain. Next to that of Gov. Seward, the nomination of Mr. Lincoln was approved and desired. Mr. Lincoln has, in all things, been of our political faith. He is an honest, devoted, fearless, true-hearted Republican. There is not a Republican in Albany whose head, hands and heart are not now warmly embarked in the campaign.—Albany Evening Journal.

It is only by the invention and circulation of such idle tales, as the Evening Journal copies from the Union, that the Douglas organs can manage to keep life in their party. But for the delusive hopes kindled by these palpable fictions, the rank and file of the Sham Democracy would lay down their arms and abandon the field in despair. It is significant of the weakness of the party that their only reliance for victory is in the apathy or indifference of Republicans and the aid of the Know-Nothings. The latter will hurt more than it will help them, and the Republican party will prove by its works in November, the strength and sincerity of its faith.

Doing the Great Eastern.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

NEW YORK, July 20, 1860.

When I arrived at the foot of Hammond street, and could reach out my hand and touch the big ship, my impression was one of disappointment. There she lay, not at the foot of a street, but at the foot of three streets—not a monster, but simply a larger steamship than I had ever seen before. The feelings of awe which I had supposed would accompany my first glimpse, as we read in those narratives of men who have seen St. Peter's and the Pyramids, I did not experience. In truth, she looked smaller than she really is. I knew that if it was possible to get her into East Water street, Milwaukee, she would reach from the corner of Wisconsin street to the St. Charles Hotel, and the top of her wheel-houses would overlook that edifice. I saw in a moment that her side-wheels were larger round than a circus tent; but I had to pass up the long inclined plane that led into her side—give my ticket up at the head of a pair of stairs (like those leading up to the Newhall House,) where a turnstile registered the number of admissions—and stand on the deck before the vastness of her proportions began to be comprehended. The eye sweeps over an eighth of a mile; and the condensing of the figures in the distance, the gradual approach of her two sides in a true perspective, brought home forcibly how long she was. To look over the side is, perhaps, the best way to do her justice; thus you will find that you are indeed sixty feet up, and just on a level with the setting of that sloop's topmast; that the boats on the river look like chips; that she is indeed a Leviathan.

I commenced at the stern (where there are four six feet wheels all arranged on one axle—to move the rudder) and walked "forard." Her one acre deck, which is of wood, not iron, is about as smooth as a hewn log. The marks of the adze are visible every where, the joints of the timbers are sufficiently large in places to admit your finger, and it having been raining, this vast wooden floor was covered with little puddles of water. I paced across between her paddle boxes and made thirty-three long strides, inspected the donkey engine on her deck and entered her wheel house, where six of us stood on one of the buckets or blades of the ponderous wheel, and looked down through the maze of iron rods and bands. Between the wheel-houses is the glass house rising in a great dome, and lighting the engines beneath. Through this you get a view of the wonderful machinery which propels the mass. Without a question this is the most interesting spectacle afforded on board. Passing another sky-light, only 54 feet long and 32 feet wide, we come to the Captain's House, 24 by 16, with beautiful parlors, bedrooms, bath, and all the conveniences of a residence on Terra Firma. On the deck there are five entrances to the main saloons below. We were disappointed in these saloons. The ornamentation is tawdry, the iron walls being covered with a gilt paper and the ceiling panneled off into Arabesque squares. The magnitude of these apartments, however, strikes one. Two of them are as broad as Albany Hall and would be capacious ball-rooms. The furniture appears shabbily rich—bearing the marks of much use, and throughout the whole suite of rooms, servants in duck pants and wearing tarpaulins are moving, and carpenter's tools, pieces of broken machinery, oil cans, and empty porter bottles lie scattered about in strange contrast to rosewood furniture and magnificent mirrors.

Without a diagram, one wanders among dark passages, strange descents down narrow and spiral stairways through shafts as one would descend into a coal mine, and gets lost in a maze of rooms and alleys. Now you immerge into a saloon; now you pass through a tunnel one hundred feet long, lit with small oil lamps—and you hear the great iron cylinder ringing with the tread of feet and the sound of distant hammers in the machine shop. Here you bring up against a temporary partition of white-washed boards, and must needs go up, or down to get past. Here you are upon a new saloon, and when you supposed you had reached the extremity of the vessel, you suddenly find yourself in the midst of another engine room, where swarthy men in greasy clothes are perched on huge shafts, tinkering, rubbing, and oiling the intricacies of iron.

You may go down, down, and presently you will arrive at an ice cream saloon, where tables are set out as in a summer garden, and visitors are regaling themselves with cooling dishes at 15 cents a piece, not because it is not cool enough in this iron dungeon, (or palace) but because they want to be able to tell their friends they ate cream on board of the Great Eastern.

Several stands, in different directions, under the supervision of Englishmen, are loaded here with photographs of the officers, and then with "guide books" to the ship. One Cockney has a store in the for'ard part, where he sells sea shells ornamented with the inscription, "Purchased on board the Great Eastern," for a dollar.

Having wandered up and down about a mile and a half (we should judge—though they have no mile stones aboard) we returned to the engine-room in the centre—took one long look at the cylinders, which are seven feet diameter and four feet stroke, with pistons 27 inches thick. The massive iron work actually bewilders one, and no one can look at it without expressing the desire to see so ponderous a thing in motion.

It is the opinion of American machinists that her engines, though well made, are poorly designed—having too short a stroke. Not being a judge, we cannot vouch for this.

The mistakes of the Great Eastern are many, but whether they will ever be remedied remains to be seen. As she now appears, she is one of the greatest achievements of human skill, a wonderful effort of art; beautiful in her might, and fit to be classed with the Tabular Bridge and the Palace of Sydenham as a wonder of the century.

It is now decided to take her to Cape May on an excursion trip, tickets to be ten dollars. A great many will avail themselves of this opportunity to test the sea-going qualities of the ship.

As I passed out of the "Exit Port," I noticed her chain cable fastened to the dock.—To those who do not go aboard and see the immense drum, made to revolve by steam, it must be a mystery how this chain is managed—every link of which is as big as WORCESTER's Dictionary.

All about the docks have sprung up booths and side shows, an ice cream garden is spread out over what was once a coal yard, and monkeys, and hand organs form a cordon of attractions about the ship itself.

While in the neighborhood a continual stream of visitors passed up the gangway plank—the crowds seeming to increase rather than diminish as the day grew warmer.

DEMOCRACY AND SLAVERY.

The Creed of the Party Laid Down—Letter of Charles O'Conor to the New York Ratification Meeting.

NEW YORK, July 17, 1860.

GENTLEMEN:—Cordially approving the nominations of John C. Breckinridge for President and Joseph Lane for Vice-President of the United States, I regret that it will not be in my power to address the ratification meeting appointed to be held to-morrow evening at the Cooper Institute.

However deeply it is to be deplored that rival platforms and rival candidates are presented to the Democratic party, threatening to divide its strength, and deliver it over as an easy prey into the hands of its opponents, yet, such being unhappily the fact, the duty of making a choice cannot be avoided.

The difference between these platforms, like every political question of the times, derives all its significance from the subject of negro slavery. Its relation to the territories and to the mode of governing them is merely incidental; it is merely the form in which this perpetually recurring subject is here developed as an element of strife. The controversy in all its practical bearings, is merely this: How is negro slavery to be dealt with?

In its moral, political, legal and economical aspects, my views on that general subject have been so distinctly and so often expressed, that my position in reference to the rival platforms now before us could not be doubtful.

The most fertile regions of the globe cannot be so cultivated as fully to develop their natural resources for the benefit of mankind except by negro labor; negro labor cannot be there employed except through compulsion of a superior race; and, in no way can so great a measure of physical enjoyment and moral improvement be imparted to the negro, as by his compulsory servitude in these very regions.

From these undeniable facts, written in the great book of nature, proven by experience, and with sanction from revelation, my reason draws the inference that negro slavery is not repugnant to justice—is not unprofitable to the white man—is not oppressive to the negro, and is not inexpedient as a matter of social policy.

Let us apply these views to our country. "Since the foundation of this republic, negro slavery has ever been a main pillar of our strength, an indispensable element of our growth and prosperity. It is now an integral part of our being as a nation; to expel it by fraud or tear it out by violence, would be a national suicide."

It follows that "to vindicate its essential justice and morality, in all courts and places, before men and nations, is the duty of every American citizen."

A moral war has been made upon this institution by infidels, and a quasi religious crusade has been preached against it by another class. Hitherto, at least in the North, no one has defended it, and its southern advocates have not been heard. The natural results have ensued; judgment has passed against by default, and the idea that it conflicts with natural justice and with divine law, has taken possession of the northern mind.

This state of things afforded a most promising quarry for the industry of political party-makers, and they have availed themselves of it. They argued: "With the national conscience on our side—with God and nature both on our side, and against our antagonist—surely we must win." Accordingly, this bright idea has been industriously worked into a political organization, and here stands before us at the North the black republican party, almost, if not absolutely, invincible.

Why has that party any strength? Why does it now threaten to destroy harmony between the North and the South, leading to disunion and to disasters deep and irremediable?

It is simply because the false assumption of abolitionism, that negro slavery is wicked and unjust, has been permitted to pass unrefuted.

How is that destructive party to be shorn of its pernicious strength? There is but one method by which this object can be effected; and that is by denying and disproving the false position on which it is founded.

We must, as a party, insist unqualifiedly that in the institution of negro slavery there is nothing whatever which calls for unfavorable action by government; that the right of the white master to the services of his negro slave is, in every moral phase, precisely the same as his right to any other property.

If this proposition be not true, no honest man ought to desire the permanency of our republic; if it be true, the Black Republican doctrine is a treasonable and destructive fallacy.

I am in favor of the principles enunciated in the Senate resolutions of 1860, and in the report of the Committee on Resolutions made to our National Convention at Charleston, because they came up to this point. They meet the exigency before us; they fairly and directly meet the issue as it is understood by all honest and sensible men on either side.

I am in favor of Breckinridge and Lane, because they stand upon a platform distinctly expressing these principles.

Mr. Douglas declines practically to stand up to them. He blinks the main issue, and seeks to ride into power upon a dogma which impliedly concedes to abolitionism the vital element of his political power, to-wit: that negro slavery is unjust, or, at least, has in it, some element which, on moral grounds, justifies hostility.

His friends may deny this construction; but to my mind it is manifestly just. The whole practical importance of his popular sovereignty doctrine is in its bearing on the slave question. No one cares a fig about it except in this single connection; in all its other bearings it is an admitted abstraction, unworthy of a moment's attention, and incapable of attracting it.

Let any man who doubts this, read Mr. Douglas' argument as published in Harper's Magazine, and his subsequent reply to Judge Black in defence of that article. Slavery is the staple of his whole argument. The phrases and postulates of the anti slavery agitators are invoked by him at every point in the discussion, and most liberally used to sustain his views.

Thus, to all practical purposes, Mr. Douglas presents himself as a semi-abolitionist.—His platform tends to keep abolitionism alive, as a power in the State, for future mischief. The platform of Breckinridge and Lane assails the hydra in front, and aims to slay it outright.

Whilst I am thus with you in sentiment, and to the extent of my humble powers am ready to aid in your object, I cannot lose sight of the policy which requires a thorough union of all New Yorkers who are opposed to the election of Lincoln. Conceding with that eminent and patriotic citizen of Pennsylvania, William B. Reed, "I believe that there are three candidates for the Presidency preferable to the one whom every abolitionist or anti-slavery agitator in the land supports. With great respect,

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
CH. O'CONNOR.

Boots and Shoes,

60 LAKE STREET, CHICAGO 60.

WE OWN THE EXCLUSIVE RIGHT for the sale of MITCHELL'S PATENT METALLIC TIPPED BOOTS AND SHOES, for and within the States of Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota, and hereby give notice that all parties dealing in these goods within the above States, without having first arranged with us and by our consent, are and will be direct infringers upon our EXCLUSIVE rights, and that as soon as we are advised of any infringement, shall demand proper and immediate redress.

We have made extensive arrangements with the most celebrated manufacturers, whereby we can fully supply the increasing demand with the best qualities of these Tipped Boots and Shoes from our store in Chicago, each pair of which will be stamped and labeled with our name.

We shall recognize no Tipped goods within either the above States, but such are thus stamped and supplied by us.

PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES

ARE THE RESULT OF IMPURE blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practiced by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions should never dry them up by external applications for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

JUDSON'S MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches, Sores, &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are sold by all medicine dealers. jy13j961ldeweowlm

THE RIVULET.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

This little rill, that from the springs
Of yonder grove its current brings,
Plays on the slope awhile, and then
Goes prattling into groves again,
Oft to its warbling waters drew
My little feet, when life was new,
When woods in early green were dressed,
And from the chambers of the west
The warmer breezes, travelling out,
Breathed the new scent of flowers about,
My truant steps from home would stray,
Upon its grassy side to play,
List the brown thrasher's vernal hymn,
And crop the violet on its brim,
With blooming cheek and open brow,
As young and gay, sweet rill, as thou.

And when the days of boyhood came,
And I had grown in love with fame,
Duly I sought thy banks, and tried
My first rude numbers by thy side.
Words cannot tell how bright and gay
The scenes of life before me lay.

Then glorious hopes, that now to speak
Would bring the blood into my cheek,
Passed o'er me; and I wrote on high,
A name I deemed should never die.

Years change thee not. Upon yon hill
The tall old maples, verdant still,
Yet tell, in grandeur of decay,
How swift the years have dashed away,
Since first, a child, and half afraid,
I wandered in the forest shade.
Thou, ever joyous rivulet,
Dost simple, leap and prattle yet;
And sporting with the sands that pave
The windings of thy silver wave,
And dancing to thy own wild chime,
Thou laughest at the lapse of time.
The same sweet sounds are in my ear
My early childhood loved to hear;
As pure thy limpid waters run;
As bright they sparkle to the sun;
As fresh and thick the bending ranks
Of herbs that line thy oozy banks;
The violet there, in soft May dew,
Comes up, as modest and as blue;
As green amid thy currents stress
Floats the scarce-rooted watercress;
And the brown ground-bird, in thy glen,
Still chirps as merrily as then.

Thou changest not—but I am changed,
Since first thy pleasant banks I ranged;
And the grave stranger, come to see
The play-place of his infancy,
Has scarce a single trace of him
Who sported once upon thy brim.
The visions of my youth are past—
Too bright, too beautiful to last.
I've tried the world—it wears no more
The coloring of romance it wore,
Yet well has Nature kept the truth
She promised in my earliest youth,
The radiant beauty shed abroad
On all the glorious works of God,
Shows freshly to my sobered eye,
Each charm it wore in days gone by.

A few brief years shall pass away,
And I, all trembling, weak, and gray,
Bowed to the earth, which waits to fold
My ashes in the embracing mould,
(If haply the dark will of fate
Indulge my life so long a date)
May come for the last time to look
Upon my childhood's favorite brook.
Then dimly on my eye shall gleam
The sparkle of thy dancing stream;
And faintly on my ear shall fall
Thy prattling current's merry call;
Yet shalt thou flow as glad and bright
As when thou met'st my infant sight.

And I shall sleep—and on thy side,
As ages after ages glide,
Children their early sports shall try,
And pass to hoary age and die.
And thou, unchanged from year to year,
Gayly shalt play and glitter here;
Amid young flowers and tender grass
Thy endless infancy shalt pass;
And, singing down thy narrow glen,
Shalt mock the fading race of men.

CASTA DIVA.

"Heigh ho?" sighs Mr. Patron, "what a forlorn thing it is to live alone!" and he drew his easy chair close to the fire and esconced himself therein, wrapping his tri-colored dressing gown about him. "I wish I were married! I know a lady—boards in the same house, too—and I believe she'd have me, if I were to ask her. I mean the pretty music teacher. She is young, delicate, and amiable; only there seems to be something melancholy about her, as though she had known sorrow; besides she is a widow. I like her, though, and I believe she likes me. I'll think this over; I have plenty of money, and nobody to spend it upon. Yes, I think I will ask the pretty Madame Victor to marry me."

Rap, tap, tap.

"Come in!—who's there?"

"Please, Sir, it's your clean clothes."

"Clean clothes! and pray who are you, you little cherub, and where do you come from?"

"I am Laurette, sir; and I live with Bridget, who washes your clothes, and she sent me with the basket to-night."

"Yes, I should think she had, you little ducklin; and the basket is bigger than yourself. Come and sit down in this chair by the fire and warm your toes—there now! I want to talk with you. Are you Bridget's child?"

"Oh no, sir," and a look of care passed over here little face.

"No, I thought not. Washerwomen's children don't have such eyes, nor such broad foreheads, nor such soft hair. Well birdie, how came you with Bridget? have you no parents?"

"I don't know, I only dream I have.—Bridget lets me stay with her because I can sing."

"Sing! and what has that to do with it?"

"Oh, sir, I sing my songs in the great houses, and they give me sixpences, and I take them home to Bridget."

"Aha! you pay your board then? Well, then, little Laurette, will you sing for me now?"

"Yes, indeed," and the little one stood up in the middle of the rug, and opening her rosebud mouth, she sings CASTA DIVA.

"Bless my stars, what a voice! I know something of music myself; at least to know that such a voice should be a fortune to one who possesses it. Little one, where did you learn that?"

"Nurse taught me."

"Nurse! who is Nurse?"

"Nurse is dead." The dark eyes fill with tears, and the ruby lips are quivering.

Mr. Patron walks up and down the room. His curiosity is excited as well as his pity.

"Please, sir, shall I have my basket?—Bridget will scold if I stay too long."

"No, little one, I will carry the basket; I'm going home with you."

"It's up five flights of stairs, sir, and there is no light in the passage—"

"All the more reason I should go with you. Now I am ready. Come my little singer, you and I will be better acquainted before long. Don't fall down those stone steps; keep hold my hand; there, we are in Broadway. Now where do you turn, down Prince street, hey? and down Crosby? What! do you live down this alley? Oh, never fear, little CASTA DIVA, I shall tread safely enough while this little hand lead me. Ugh! how many more flights are there?—only two? Well, well, I can climb them if you can. So, is this the door?"

"Och, and is it you sir, that would be after coming to see a poor woman at this hour? Will you be seated, sir?" said Bridget, wiping a wooden chair with her apron. "Your shirts were not ironed to be suiting ye, maybe?"

"Shirts are all right, Bridget. I came to bring home your little girl, and to ask something about her. She has been singing to me. Will you tell me where she came from?"

"Ye takes a deal o' trouble for a lone bit o' childer, indeed, sir; but her story is not so very long. She lived with a furrin woman, in the room below, named Theresa.—The woman said she was waiting maid in Laurette's family, in Italy, somewhere, and when she was out with the child, then only two years old, for the sake of the air, there came a big row in the city, and the child's father was in the middle of it and got kilt; and when she reached the house, all in a fright, sure it was all on fire, and the mother gone, and never was she able to find her. So she kept the child and comes to America with it; for she heard tell how the streets were all paved with gold; and when she came and found nary gold nor food but for the working, she had to go to washing below stairs; but never a bit did she let this child do for itself, but waited on it and only taught it to sing as its mother did before it, she said; and last year Theresa died. This poor little creature took on for her so bad that I took her myself, only I'll be bringing her up different entirely; I'll tache her to earn her bread at any rate; and so I sends her out to sing to the great folks, and makes her help me carry round the clothes, and that is all, sir."

"It is very good in you, Bridget, to take the little orphan. You have saved her from a sad fate. You will be rewarded, you may depend."

Bridget raised her eyebrows and dropped a courtesy, while little "CASTA DIVA," as Mr. Patron then and ever since has called her, hid her face in the bed, and sobbed to hear her own story related. The kind gentleman looked at her tenderly, and then continued:

"I have a plan for this poor child, which will at once relieve you of your charge, and repay you for your goodness of heart. Good night, little one; I'll come to-morrow. Dry your tears, for I will yet make you happy.—Here, Bridget, is some money for you, and be sure you do not send her out to sing again. I have something better for her to do."

Bridget dropped another courtesy and her mouth opened wide, for she was all mystified and bewildered.

An hour later and Mr. Patron is seated in his easy chair before his bright fire, with his dressing gown once more folded around—The only difference is that he smiles instead of sighing as he did before.

"Ah yes," he says, "I see my way clear. I can now, without hesitation, call upon Madame Victor in her room, to interest her about my Casta Diva. I will tell her the story, and engage her to cultivate the voice of my little protege. I will see her to-morrow morning, and perhaps she will accompany me to Bridget's lodging. Not a very romantic walk to invite the lady of my heart to share, but then the circumstances are peculiar.

"Now I think of it, I must engage of my landlady the little bed-room next to mine.—I am determined to adopt that singing cherub for my own. I will change her name to Casta Diva Patron. It sounds musical, and she is music itself. If sweet Madame Victor only sees in her what I do, we shall be an amazing happy family. I declare, I feel like a husband and father already."

And as he goes to bed and dreams of his future boys till he fairly laughs aloud in his sleep.

Now it is morning, and if you will put your head out of your door, you can see him going along the hall. He stops at No. 6—knocks gently; but the rich toned piano, touched by a thrilling hand, does not allow so love-like a tap to be heard. This time he knocks louder; the music stops, and the door is opened by a beautiful woman who smilingly invites him to enter. Well, I don't wonder he fell in love with her. They have closed the door. Let you and I go peep in at the key hole, and hear what they say; I'll never tell—will you? Hark! Well, after all, I can't tell you what they said, because I promised I wouldn't; but Mr. Patron has staid in there a great while, and he didn't ask her to play or sing once all the time.

Now the door opens again, and they come out together; he in his over coat and hat, and she in her cloak and velvet bonnet. He looks very much excited, and she looks pale and trembles so she can scarcely speak. She takes his offered arm and goes down stairs and out the street door. I do believe they are going to Bridget's.

And so they were.

Good Mr. Patron walks slowly with the sweet lady, for she has every reason to tremble. She believes she is Lauretta's mamma; for she has been telling her friend how her husband was killed by a mob one dreadful day because he was a great politician, and when they burned his house they took her and threw her into prison, where she remained a whole year, and only made her escape when, during terrible troubles in Italy, the prison doors were unbarred to all.

She had sought frantically for her child, but in vain; and believing that both Lauretta and her nurse were crushed in the same mob that had killed her husband, she came to America to try to earn a livelihood among hospitable strangers by her fine musical education and uncommon voice.

Madame Victor believes that Lauretta is her child, because their two stories are so strangely alike. Five years have passed since she left Italy; but she knows her eyes will not deceive her. Her baby features are indelibly engraved upon her heart.

Her kind friend supports her up the five flights of stairs, and then she stops to take breath and nerve herself for either intense happiness or heavy disappointment.

They are about to enter the room when a little voice greets their ear singing, with wonderful power and expression, an Italian melody which the lady herself used to sing in her own sunny land. She stops and grasps the arm of her friend.

"Oh, wait," she whispers "let me try;" and, with a great effort, she continues and completes the unfinished strain in a voice that an angel might not exceed.

He opens the door.

Lauretta stands in the center of the room, alone, pale and agitated; her great eyes dilated with aan emotion long repressed. Her mother's voice has reached a spot in her heart which vibrates on her memory like a glimpse of heaven.

Madame Victor sinks upon a chair and gazes long and earnestly upon the little motionless figure, and then she stretches out her arms and whispers "come here."

Lauretta slowly advances; and when she is close to the beautiful lady, she nestles her head upon her bosom and draws a long, deep sigh.

"Tell me your whole, name, sweet one?"

"Lauretta Victor."

The lady presses the little form still closer.

"Darling, I am your mother!"

"I know it!" sighs the child.

"You KNOW it, my angel?"

"Yes, I have seen you in my dreams, and always call you 'mother,' and when you sang just now, it brought it all back.

Good Mr. Parton went to the window and wiped his eyes.

* * * * * * * *

Once again we see him sitting in his easy chair before the bright coal fire. By his side sits a beautiful lady, one hand lies in his and the other is tenderly stroking his hair; but her eyes are resting upon a little fairy who sits at the piano, silently dreaming over some of Handel's music, which her "papa" has brought home to her.

The lady is his wife.

The fairy is his "CASTA DIVA."

TAKE THIS OCCASION TO ANNOUNCE to their friends, and the public at large, that they have removed from their old quarters to their present location, for the purpose of obtaining more ample accommodations to their business, and to keep pace with the requirements of their trade. We have just made heavy additions to our stock, which makes ours the best assorted Family Grocery in town, and we intend to be in future, as we always have been in the past, the first in the market with every novelty of the season. We are receiving goods every week from the East, thereby always keeping our stock fresh and full. Everything pertaining to the trade can be found at our establishment, and we are prepared to sell at wholesale as well as retail, on as favorable terms as any concern in town. Teas, Sugars, Coffees, Dried Fruits, Hermetically Sealed Fruits, and every other article usually found in first-class family groceries, are sold by us, and always warranted as represented. We will sell you a better tea for fifty cents, than you can buy anywhere else in town for seventy five, and as good a one for forty, as our windy cotemporaries, who make such a blow on TEAS sell or can sell for fifty. We mean what we say, and stand ready to verify it every hour in the day, and every day in the week. We make it a point never to be undersold, and want it distinctly understood that we do our business upon that principle.

Country merchants can always sort up their stock with us, to a good advantage. We will sell you goods by the package as low as any of the wholesale dealers down town.

Butter and Eggs are received by us daily, from our agents in the country.

St. Nicholas Hotel,
BROADWAY,
NEW YORK.

WHEN COMPLETED, SIX YEARS ago, the St. Nicholas was universally pronounced the most magnificent, convenient and thoroughly organised establishment of the kind on this continent. What it was then, it remains today—without a rival in sumptuousness, and in the general elements of comfort and enjoyment. The Hotel has accommodations for 1,000 guests, including 100 complete suites of apartments for families. Six hundred persons can be comfortably seated at the tables of its three public dining rooms, and nothing that modern art has devised for the convenience and social gratification of the traveling public has been omitted in its plan, or is neglected in its practical details. The early reputation of the house at home and abroad derived from its magnitude, its superb appointments, and its homelike comforts and luxuries, has been enhanced every year by the unwearied exertions of the proprietors.

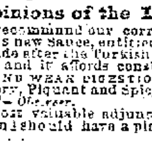
SOYER'S SULTANA'S SAUCE.
For Hot and Cold Dishes of all Kinds.



THIS MOST DELICIOUS and appetising Sauce, invented by the renowned "SOYER," for the London Reform Club, is, since his decease, manufactured by the well known house of CROSSE & BLACKWELL, London, from the original recipe. It is the favorite sauce in England and on the Continent, with a high and growing reputation among American Epicures, and is much approved of as a stimulant to the appetite and aid in digestion.

Opinions of the London Press.

"We recommend our correspondent to try MONS. SOYER'S new Sauce, entitled the 'Sultana's Sauce.' It is made after the Turkish recipe; its flavor is excellent, and it affords considerable aid in cases of SLOW AND WEAK DIGESTION."—The Lancet.

"Savory, Piquant and Spicy, worthy the genius of Soyer."—Observer.

"A most valuable adjunct to Fish, Flesh and Fowl, and should have a place on every table."—Atlas.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary, as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared, season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON, by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer and the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

It is not too Much to Say
SINCE ALL,
OLD AND YOUNG,
Affirm its Truth,

VIZ: THAT PROF. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE will preserve infallibly the growth and color of the hair, if used two or three times a week, to any imaginable age. Perfectly restore the gray, cover the bald with nature's own ornament, the hair; make it more soft and beautiful than any oil, and preserve the scalp free from all disease to the greatest age. Statesmen, Judges, Attorneys, Doctors, Clergymen, Professional men and Gentlemen and Ladies of all classes, all over the world, bear testimony that we do not say too much in its favor. Read the following, and judge:

HICKORY GROVE, St. Charles Co., Mo., }
November 19, 1857. }

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir: Some time last summer we were induced to use some of your Hair Restorative, and its effects were so wonderful, we feel it our duty to you and the afflicted to report it.

Our little son's head for some time had been perfectly covered with sores, and some called it scald head. The hair almost entirely came off in consequence, when a friend, seeing his sufferings, advised us to use your Hair Restorative; we did so with little hope of success, but to our surprise, and that of all our friends, a very few applications removed the disease entirely, and a new and luxuriant crop of hair soon started out, and we can now say, that our boy has as healthy a scalp, and as luxuriant a crop of hair as any other child. We can, therefore, and do hereby recommend your Restorative, as a perfect remedy for all diseases of the scalp and hair. We are Yours respectfully,
GEORGE W. HIGGINBOTHAM,
SARAH A. HIGGINBOTHAM.

PROF. WOOD—Dear Sir: My hair had, for several years, been becoming prematurely gray, accompanied by a harshness which rendered the constant application of oil necessary in dressing it. When I commenced using your Hair Restorative about two months ago it was in that condition; and having continued its use till within the last three weeks, it has been turned to its natural color, and assumed a softness and lustre greatly to be preferred to those produced by the application of oils or any other preparation I have ever used. I regard it as an indispensable article for every lady's toilet, whether to be used as a Hair Restorative or for the simple purpose of dressing or beautifying the hair. You have permission to refer to me all who entertain any doubt of its performing all that is claimed for it.
MRS. C. SYMONDS,
Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 10, 1857. 114 Third st.

WELLINGTON, Mo., Dec. 5, 1857.

PROF. WOOD—Dear Sir: By the advice of a friend of mine, who had been using your Restorative, I was induced to try it, as I had the fever, some time last May, and nearly every hair in my head came out. Now my hair has come in a great deal thicker than ever it was. Nothing but a duty and sympathy that I feel to communicate to others who are afflicted as I have been, would induce me to give this public acknowledgment of the benefit I have received from Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative.
Yours respectfully,
A. R. JACOBS.

The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: Large, medium, and small; the small holds ½ a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for $3 a bottle.

THE GREATEST
MEDICAL DISCOVERY
OF THE AGE.

MR. KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, HAS discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR
FROM
THE WORST SCROFULA DOWN TO A COMMON PIMPLE.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases, both thunder humor. He has now in his possession over one hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two or three bottles will clear the system of biles.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the stomach.

Three or five bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of Erysipelas.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruptions of the skin.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three or four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

ROXBURY, Mass.

DEAR MADAM:—The reputation of the Medical Discovery, in curing all kinds of humors, is so well established, by the unanimous voice of all who have ever used it, that I need not say anything on the subject, as the most skillful physicians and the most careful druggists in the country are unanimous in its praise.

In presenting the Medical Discovery to your notice, I do it with a full knowledge of its curative powers, in relieving all, and curing most of the diseases to which you are unfortunately so liable. That most excruciating disease to an affectionate mother, is cured as if by a miracle; your own temper is restored to its natural sweetness, and your babe from short and fretful naps to calm and sweet slumbers, and the Medical Discovery becomes a fountain of blessings to your husband and household.

NURSING SORE MOUTH

In the more advanced stages of

CANKER

it extends to the stomach, causing

DYSPEPSIA,

which is nothing but canker on the stomach; then the intestines and creating a sinking, gone feeling, and an indifference even to the cares of your family.

Your stomach is

RAW AND INFLAMED,

your food distresses you, and you can only take certain kinds, and even of that your system does not get half the nourishment it contains, as the acrimonious fluid of the canker eats it up; then your complexion loses its bloom and becomes sallow or greenish, and your best day is gone. For want of nourishment your system becomes loose and flabby, and the fibres of your body become relaxed. Then follows a train of diseases which the Medical Discovery is peculiarly adapted to

CURE!

Palpitation of the heart, pain in the side, weakness of the spine and small of the back, pain of the hip-joint when you retire, irregularity of the bowels, and also that most excruciating of diseases the

PILES.

How many thousands of poor women are suffering from this disease and pining away a miserable life, and their next door neighbor does not know the cause. I wish to impress on your mind that good old proverb, "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure." In the

you have both the preventative and the cure, with this great and good quality, that it will never, under any circumstances, do you any injury. Yours truly,
DONALD KENNEDY.

DR. CHURCHILL'S REMEDY.
WINCHESTER'S GENUINE PREPARATION OF THE
HYPOPHOSPHITES
OF LIME AND OF SODA,
(Made from the Formula of Dr. J. F. Churchill,)
FOR THE PREVENTION AND CURE OF CONSUMPTION!

THE SUCCESS OF THIS NEW REMEDY, (discovered by Dr. Churchill, of Paris,) is obtaining the most UNBOUNDED POPULARITY throughout Europe and the United States. It is a purely SCIENTIFIC PREPARATION, and acts with INVARIABLE EFFICACY in all stages of Pulmonary and Nervous Diseases.

This Remedy has not only a curative effect, but will, if used wherever there exists a suspicion of the disease, PREVENT ITS DEVELOPMENT, and thus act as a preservative with regard to Consumption, just as vaccination does with regard to small pox.

What the Medical Profession Say.

"In no instance have I found the Remedy to fail."—Dr. Churchill.

"I have used your preparation of the Hypophosphites with the most happy effect."—C. Fisher, M. D., Lyerville, Ill.

"I have been astonished in witnessing the good effects of the Hypophosphites. The statements in your pamphlet are not at all exaggerated. My patient was just entering the last stage of tubercular consumption."—S. Moses, M. D., Hoosic Falls, N. Y.

"They exert an important remedial influence over the tubercular disease by improving the nervous strength and invigorating the nutritive functions."—Dr. W. E. Rust, Morristown, N. J.

"I have derived more satisfaction from the use of your Hypophosphites than from all other forms of medication combined."—Dr. Geo. W. Maris, Columbus, O.

"LOWELL, O., July 5, 1859.—I have had several cases given up by attending physicians who are now exempt from all the symptoms of pulmonary disease. I have used the Remedy in my own case, with decided success. It was regarded as hopeless by physicians and friends, and even by myself, under the 'old treatment.' I am now able to ride, in attending the sick, as many miles, perhaps, in a day, as any other physician in the country."—W. F. Clark, M. D.

"The Hypophosphites are most appropriate Remedies in large class of affections resulting from loss of nervous force."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

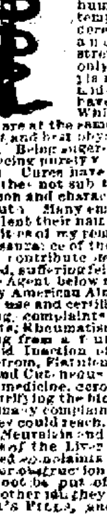
Ayer's Cathartic Pills.



THE SCIENCES OF CHEMISTRY and Medicine have been taxed to their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these Pills have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedented upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures of the following complaints: Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER, Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass.

Naples, 7.—It is asserted that the ministry has obtained the King's consent to the removal of Gen. Wunziata—the head of the court Camarilla of former reign.

The official Journal of Sicily publishes the proclamation of the King granting a constitution to Naples, but precedes it by a leading article, advising him to remember the perjury of his predecessors, who also swore to govern constitutionally.

The Emperor Napoleon gave an audience on Sunday to Count De Vaurene, special embassador from Garibaldi.

Further papers had been laid before the British Parliament respecting Savoy and Nice, and the interior of Switzerland.

The despatch dated June 15th, by Lord John Russell, intimates the unwillingness of Her Majesty's government to take part in a conference.

A Rome despatch of the 7th, states that the Irish volunteers are leaving for Spoleto, where a corps of 10,000 men is to be concentrated before the fortress.

Paris, 11th—The commanders of French men-of-war at Syria, are ordered to abstain from all intervention, and confine themselves to the preservation of the French consul, and offer refuge to all Christians who want it.

The French Government had refused to denationalize the two French vessels purchased for Garibaldi.

The Paris Patrie states that the siege of Messina is decided upon, but the great heat, so terrible in July and August, will render operations exceedingly difficult.

The French Chamber of Deputies and Council of State are at variance on the Ray question.

A despatch from the Governor of New Zealand, of April 7th, states that the town and district of Auckland are perfectly secure against any attack that can be made.

The London Times in a leader regards Mr Kingslake's revelation in the House of Commons respecting Napoleon as calculated to weaken the policy of non-intervention lately upheld by England.

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, July 22—3 P. M.

Accounts continue to reach this city that our mercantile marine is subject to most annoying perplexities in the waters of Netherland India, so much so indeed, that unless some remedy be proposed by our Government, no American commander will risk his life, and the property of his employer in those seas.

Several cases of mutinous conduct reaching to violent assaults on the ships' officers, have occurred within the past few years, at Batavia, Gouraboya and other Dutch East India ports, and when the authorities were invoked for protection, the answer was that the outrages occurred under the American flag, and were not recognizable by the Dutch authorities.

The cases of the Hussar, Norman, and the more recent one of the Stag Hound, in which the estimable son of Capt. Hussey was brutally murdered, are well known in this city.

The last named case is now before Mr. Hilses, the solicitor of the treaty, and shows a degree of superciliousness on the part of the Dutch authorities at Petaria, amounting almost to the offence of "participa criminis."

The opinion here is that we should have a new Convention with the Government of the Hague, and that until such Convention is satisfied, the United States should by all means send some of our most prompt naval officers to that station to guard against further injustice.

The Postmaster General is about to issue an important circular to Postmasters, requiring in all cases postage stamps, and not money, to be made in prepayment of postage, and prohibiting the use of the rating stamp in cancelling postage stamps. Any neglect to cancel postage stamps or to post-mark letters plainly, will be regarded as cause for serious censure, if not removal, and all Postmasters are required to report every instance of such neglect at the appointed office.

Instructions are also to be issued in execution of the recent provision of Congress for the return of letters to the writers thereof when they are not taken out of the office by those to whom they are addressed.

On Saturday the Democrats had a Douglas ratification meeting. Great enthusiasm prevailed. A torchlight procession a quarter of a mile long, with music and transparencies, attended by hundreds of people, marched through the city to the Speaker's stand. A large number of ladies were out and from many dwellings there was waving of handkerchiefs and hozzas for the Little Giant.—The crowd was addressed by Hon. Wm. Hull, J. N. Knapp of New York, Brick Pomeroy of the Union & Democrat, who had that day bet $3,500 that Douglas would carry Illinois and Wisconsin, A. P. Blakeslee, C. K. Lard, and Hon E. Fox Cook. As the Douglas Rangers, 100 strong, were manœuvering on the prairie before the meeting, passengers coming in on the boat thought the prairie was on fire and the city was in danger. It was the largest and most enthusiastic political meeting ever held in this city.

A PERMANENT FASHION.—Some time ago we predicted that American ladies would never consent to abandon the use of the hoop skirt, so essential to comfort, elegance and health. Its style may vary, its circumference may expand or contract, but the article itself will remain a fixed part of a lady's wardrobe. A single house in this city, the Messrs. Thomson of 336 Broadway, now manufacture about five thousand skirts daily, and the demand for their various styles is continually increasing. Their latest improvement is in the use of "Corrugated Springs," whose muscle-like contraction and expansion make the structure so supple, light, elastic, graceful, and durable, as to leave nothing to be desired either in beauty or in usefulness.—N. Y. Independent.

A MECHANIC in Islington, England, has recently made a burning glass, three feet in diameter, by which steel, flint and even platina has been melted by concentrating the rays of the sun upon them. Owing to its great size, it has attracted the notice of several societies devoted to science and art.

MONDAY P. M., July 23d, 1860.

Our money market remains steady. Eastern Exchange i. e. on New York, Philadelphia, and Boston, buying at 1 ⅌ cent premium, and selling by the banks at 1¼ prem. The money market is well supplied, and the offerings for discount moderate.

EXCHANGE AT CHICAGO.—The Press & Tribune of this morning says:

Exchange is closer to-day but there is no change in rates. Since the decline to 1 per cent. large orders have come in from St. Louis and other surrounding cities. Currency is sent here by express with orders to remit exchange to New York for proceeds. We hear no intimations of an immediate return to old rates. The heavy shipments of produce gives employment to the currency, and generally the money market, as a whole, is working comfortably.

Gold 1¼ with few sales. Discounts on thirty days Eastern bills are made at 10 per cent. The bankers have an abundance of means for all the produce paper that offers.

In New York to-day, Milwaukee Club sold at $1,25 @1,26, and Chicago Spring at $1,21@1,22—a decline of 2@3c. Flour was also lower, common to good Extra Western bringing $5,15@5,40.

In our market there was not enough done to establish quotations. During the forenoon $1 was the best price offered for No. 1 spring in store; but holders not conceding to so much of a decline, a couple of thousand bus were sold on 'Change at $1,02 delivered. The light receipts keep up the price of Extra Club, the mills needing it to supply their local customers. Milling samples on this account brought $1,12@1,14. Nothing doing in flour, and there was little or none offered. Coarse grains quiet. Oats are held firmly at 29c delivered. The best price paid for shelled corn was 44c delivered. Hides have a declining tendency, owing to the unsettled state of the New York and Liverpool markets. Our dealers quote all qualities 1c lower to-day. Other articles are generally without change.

FREIGHT ENGAGEMENTS AT NEW YORK on Friday included: To Liverpool—700 bxs cheese (per steamer) and 270 fkns butter at 50s; 24,000 bus wheat, in bags, at 8d; 6,000 bus corn, in bags, at 7½c; 600 bbls flour at 2s. To London—5,000 bbls flour at 2s9d. To Gloucester—17,000 bus wheat at 10d.

CHICAGO MARKET, JULY 21ST.—Receipts of flour and grain, at Chicago, Saturday, were as follows:

Flour, bbls	352
Wheat, bus	20,117
Corn, bus	41,015
Oats, bus	668
Barley, bus	1,086
Rye, bus	550

In reference to the market the Press & Tribune says:

Under unusually light receipts of corn to-day, the market opened buoyant, with an active speculative and fair shipping inquiry—No. 1 corn advancing to 44½c in store. But as soon as the New York dispatches were received the market became quite flat, and the advance was entirely lost. About 135,000 bushels were sold at 45c for River Mixed afloat; 44@44½c for No. 2 Canal afloat; 42½c for Rejected Canal afloat; 43½@44½c for No. 1 in store; 42@43½c for No. 2, and 40½@41 for Rejected—the market closing quiet at the inside quotations, without any inquiry either by speculators or shippers. In the Wheat market, the effect of the large crop now being harvested, was felt with unusual severity. At the opening a few sales were made at a shade below yesterday's prices, but before the close a decline of 8@11c was experienced on both Winter and Spring grades; and even at that decline there were but few buyers. Almost every single transaction showed a depreciation in the market; and at the close there were more sellers than buyers at the latest quotations. The transactions, as will be seen by referring to the market report, were unusually light at the following range of prices:—No 1 Red $1,02@1,08; No. 2 Red 90c@$1,04; Rejected Red 55c; No. 1 Spring at 95c@$1; No. 2 Spring 85c@$1; Rejected Spring 55c. The Flour market was quiet and inactive. Oats were in good demand and steady at 26@26½c in store. Rye scarce and in demand at 52c. Barley quiet; Highwines less active and unchanged. Whitefish have declined about 25c; but Trout is firm. Hides dull.

There were more vessels offering to-day, and freights were easier. Two propellers and four sail vessels were engaged, at 6c for corn to Buffalo, and one at 6c for wheat.

PITTSBURGH, JULY 20.—Business continues very dull, languid and inactive in all its various departments.—The transactions in the leading articles, with but few exceptions, are confined to the local trade; and as regards changes we have but few to notice. In flour there has been but little done, buyers not feeling disposed to take more than they can possibly help, while holders appear anxious to sell. The grain market presents no new feature, and, with the exception of corn and oats, the sales have been trifling. Groceries continue in fair demand, while prices are steady and unchanged.

Navigation is now entirely suspended, and has been for some three or four days past. The weather continues pleasant.—Gazette.

The Hide and Leather Panic.

There was a time, when there was "nothing like leather," but that, we fear, was a long time ago, before "operations for a rise," traders on trust, and speculators of every grade were born into the world. "Leather now, in London, is no better than anything else.—At last dates, indeed, it was a good deal "worse" in a mercantile sense, than almost any other article of merchandize in the market, for such a "smash up" among the leading dealers—as we showed the other day—was never known before, not even in the dismal days of the last panic. The Shipping and Commercial List of this city publishes the following letter from a prominent New York dealer, now in London, giving a graphic description of the grand catastrophe:

LONDON, July 3, 1860.

DEAR SIR: To-day we have stirring news here. Never in the history of the Leather trade has anything occurred like it. Yesterday, three failures in the trade were announced, and as long ago as last week, a tanner at Kenilworth gave up for a large amount; but last evening it was announced that Streatfield, Laurence & Mortimer had gone under, and this morning six or eight more of the largest factors and tanners have yielded; indeed, no one appears to know the extent of the damage. We went to Leaden Hill market this morning, where we found plenty of Leather, but no buyers. The trade were assembled in large numbers, but stood and gazed panic-stricken, as did our people in Wall street in 1857. You will ask the reason for all this trouble. The answer is this: The factors (or many of them) have been doing just the kind of business that our trade did previous to the revulsion of '36—taking tanner notes, and having them discounted; then renewing them, &c.—finally taking mortgages on the tanneries—and now the machine has broken down just as it did with us—and as S., L. & M. were the head and front of the offending, they have gone down first, and will carry with them all who are dependent upon them, and this number is very large. What will be the effect of this smash upon the trade here and in America? To reduce the price of Hides—so all agree—orders will go out by this steamer to sell what Dry Goods are held on English account in our market. If so, prices will go down—others say that Leather will hold up, and Hides go down. A gentleman supposed well informed, thinks there will be one hundred failures; indeed, I think from all I see and hear, that the present system of tanning has broken down, and when revived will undergo a change, as with us.

Dry hides have fallen, in New York, 4½c ⅌ lb on best descriptions, and proportionately on other descriptions in the last ten days.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

A UNION DEPOT.

Chicago is moving actively in the matter of a union depot for several of the railroads centering there. Milwaukee would do well to follow the example. At Chicago, as here, the old fogy portion of the community strongly oppose the project, by throwing every possible obstacle in the way of its consummation. Amongst them we are a little astonished to find the Press & Tribune, which, though not taking open ground against the plan, opposes the only practicable means of carrying it out.

It is to be hoped that at no distant day our railroad companies may be able to agree upon a union of their various depots. Such a plan, while it would increase the business and diminish the expenses of all the roads, would be a great benefit to the city, preventing, as it would, any diversion of travel from Milwaukee, on account of the omnibus ride between the depots. Now is the very best time to accomplish this work, because it could doubtless be done at less expense than at any future period. None of our railroads have invested any considerable amount in depots, and vacating their present locations would involve no sacrifice in that respect.

A DEFENCE OF MR. JERVIS.

The Chicago Press & Tribune of to-day, has an elaborate editorial in defence of the President of the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad, Mr. JERVIS, whose treachery to the interests of Milwaukee has elicited some criticism from the press of this city. That Mr. JERVIS should find an apologist and defender in the Press & Tribune is entirely consistent with his present attitude towards Milwaukee.

The main feature of the Press & Tribune's article is an ingenious effort to make it appear that Mr. JERVIS' hostility to Milwaukee, arises from a desire to promote the best interests of the road. With all the allowance that can be made on the score of business policy, we must confess our inability to see in what respect the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad Company is to be benefitted by giving away the business that legitimately belongs to the eastern half of its own road to the Chicago & North-western Railroad. Stripped of the sophistry with which the Chicago editor seeks to mystify the conduct of Mr. JERVIS, that is what it amounts to, and nothing more. Practically and fully carried out, the effect of his policy would be to hand over the thro' eastward passenger traffic of his own road to the Chicago road at Janesville, and to divert the westward travel through the same channel, to the detriment of the eastern half of M. & M. road, and the city of Milwaukee. If such management as this will conduce to the benefit of the stockholders of the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad, then has Mr. JERVIS been faithful to their interests. But we must say, divesting ourselves as much as possible of local prejudice, we view Mr. JERVIS' conduct in an entirely different light. As manager of the Chicago & North-western Railroad it would be nothing more than we should expect, but as President of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Railroad it is inexplicable to us, as we doubt not, it is to others who are equally solicitous for the welfare of our "Pioneer Railroad."

THE CONVENTION OF RAILROAD MANAGERS.

The New York Tribune of Friday states that the Railroad Convention has come to an understanding in relation to the Autumn business, and agreed to have frequent meetings at Pittsburgh and Buffalo, of the Presidents, or duly authorized agents, who are to fix the East and West rates at discretion. "The feeling among Railway Managers is unanimous that the time is at hand when the transportation companies can obtain living rates, and that the question will be who shall be first served at the advanced prices. The present Convention embraces the Grand Trunk of Canada, as well as the four trunk roads and their connections to the West. The Convention also agreed to get rid of the army of drummers and agents.

CHICAGO AND MILWAUKEE RAILROAD.

The Chicago Times says of this Road:

The Chicago and Milwaukee road is fast coming up to the standard of a paying enterprise, and as soon as a consolidation of the two boards of management can be agreed upon, we have no doubt but the property will be regarded as one of the few sound railroad properties in the Northwest.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC IN JUNE.

	June 1860.	June 1859.
New York Central	$519,651	$447,813
Illinois Central	189,547	145,925

Little Miami and Xenia	74,226	87,458
Total	$1,685,604	$1,443,059

It appears that on the thirteen roads, the advance in receipts has been about 10 per cent. If we suppose this to continue, (and there can be no doubt from the state of the crops that it will be largely increased,) the increased receipts on these roads alone will be two millions of dollars. If we apply this ratio to the whole country, and we think it will be greater, the amount received by railroads in 1860, will be eight millions greater than in 1859. The prospect of such an additional increase it is that gives so much buoyancy to Western Railroad stocks.

MILEAGE TICKETS.

A good idea has been carried out by the issuing of mileage tickets on the Reading Railroad. The New York Courier and Enquirer says: "On the 1st of July, the Reading railroad issued mileage tickets at a discount of twenty-five per cent., entitling the holder to travel two thousand miles at any time, in the cars of the company, between any of the stations. The price of the ticket is $45, and we should think business men who have much travelling to do in the region traversed by this excellent road and its branches would find the arrangement an economical as well as convenient one."
